

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor integrated circuit apparatus having a buffer to which a received input data is fetched with an input clock includes a selector for selecting one of the input clock and an external clock having a stabilized phase, a PLL circuit operative with an output of the selector as a reference clock, and a read clock generating circuit for generating a read clock by frequency-dividing an output of the PLL circuit.

TOP SECRET